BUDAPEST IN GREAT PANIC

Rumanian and Allied Troops Everywhere Advancing Against the Bolsheviks; Thousands of Prisoners and Large Quantities of Materials Taken

By Associated Press.
PARIS, May 5.—It is now certain, according to the French press, that the treaty of peace will be solemnly handed to Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the German foreign minister, by Premier Clemenceau at Versailles on Thursday afternoon.

The contents of the first five chapters of the treaty have already been outlined, dealing with the preamble, German frontiers, territorial changes, German colonies and the military, naval and aerial features of the pact. The sixth chapter will define the status of the prisoners of war, and the seventh will concern the responsibilities of the former emperor and other Germans for the war. The eighth and ninth chapters will be devoted to phases of the restoration problem and financial clauses.

The 10th will deal with economic phases, the 11th with ports, railroads and water communications. The 12th will concern international labor legislation. The 13th will embrace guarantees and the 14th will contain general clauses dealing with ratification. Marcel Huin of the Echo de Paris learns that France will get absolute control of the mines of the Saar valley and a guarantee for their exploitation. He says that the president of the administrative council will be a Frenchman and will probably have executive powers.

"IT IS A GOOD PEACE"

THOMAS CLEMENCEAU.
PARIS, May 5.—"I have done my best, I think it is a good peace." This declaration was made to the editor of the Figaro last night by Premier Clemenceau. The editor adds that from the details he has been able to learn he is convinced that all France is weighing well the immense advantages she will gain from collaboration with Great Britain and the United States.

It is a good peace, the editor continued, it is also a better one because it is an alliance with the two most powerful nations of the world. Premier Clemenceau expressed the hope that Italy in the end would return to the side of the Allies. The editor of the Figaro says that the premier gave the cabinet council all the details of the efforts being made to bring Italian delegates back to Paris.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

BUYS TWO LOTS OF THE HOGG ESTATE

The congregation of the Christian church yesterday morning authorized the trustees to close a deal for the purchase from the Hogg estate two vacant ground in the rear of the Macabee building and the property of Lot Rush for the purpose of an addition to the church which has been under contemplation for a long time. The price was $1,500. There are two lots that in the year of the Macabee building fronts on Fairview avenue. Both extend westward to the church property line.

In planning for future extension it was considered cheaper to build to the northward on level ground than westward, there being a sharp descent in that direction, making an immense foundation necessary.

The members of the Men's Bible class and others of the church will clear off the ground Thursday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock. The women of the church will serve supper to the workers.

SECRETARY CLASS
CALLS ON PEOPLE TO SUPPORT LOAN

The Victory Liberty Loan campaign is two-thirds over but subscriptions have been reported for little more than one-third of the loan.

Is it conceivable that the American people, who with heart and soul waged the fight for freedom will permit this loan of victory and thanksgiving to fail?

Our sons gave of their health of their strength and of their lives that freedom might not perish. There are 150,000,000 American boys in France and Germany. Now that the war is ended it would be as reasonable for them to dishonor the nation by deserting the flag as for the nation to dishonor itself by deserting them.

Is it a large thing that we are asked to lend our money to pay the cost of victory?

Is American money less willing than American manhood? Let every one of the millions who have bought Liberty Bonds buy Victory Notes and success is sure.

After an exciting trip from Continental to Sandusky O. in an auto mobile stolen Thursday on the Morgantown road Thomas Phelan, 19, son of one of a party of four is in the Bucyrus hospital at Sandusky. He was shot and three are being held there by the police in connection with the theft of the machine.

According to the story of Edward Williams aged 17 he was riding with Richard Saltrick aged 19, whose father Charles Saltrick owns the stolen machine along the Morgantown road near Fairchance when two armed men one of them in army uniform demanded that they stop. The men then ordered Saltrick from the machine the boys says and ordered Williams to drive threatening him with a revolver.

After picking up two women who later said they were Georgia Lewis aged 21 and Olive Hannan aged 23, the men, who said they were Edwin Butler aged 21 and Thomas Phelan aged 24 the soldier all of Uniontown ordered Williams be started to drive to Sandusky.

Near Sandusky while Williams was repelling a punctured tire and the Lewis girl stood guard over him with a loaded revolver, the boy said, the weapon was accidentally discharged the bullet striking Phelan in the back. Phelan was taken to the hospital where it was found that his spinal cord had been severed by the bullet.

WANTS TO WALLOP COP

Domestic Forney Inquires Probable Penalty Before Essaying Tass.

What are the charges for hitting a policeman in the head? This is a question asked of the mayor this morning when Domestick Forney, arrested for disorderly conduct and resisting arrest was assessed $5 or given his preference of going to jail for 72 hours.

The mayor said there was no fixed rate, and it all depended on what kind of a job was done. For some jobs he might charge a little more and for another a little less. He told Forney: "We can't fix the price just now. We'll announce that after the hitting is done."

Forney was increased over his arrest and when he didn't feel like accompanying Patrolman Rendine without a fuse the copper used his little persuader on his head this morning.

The mayor assessed him $5 for how much more will it cost if he hit the policeman on the head? The prisoner wanted to know. He had $6 left in his pocketbook but he was cautious enough to inquire about the rates before endeavoring to test the thickness of Patrolman Rendine's skull.

City Clerk A. O. Buxier suggested it might have been a good idea to estimate the cost and collect in advance.

FURTHER CURTAILMENT

Of Coke Production Through Banking of Ovens For a Week.

In further curtailment of coke production the H. C. Frick Coke company on Saturday ordered the banking of Davidson and Mammoth plants for the period of a week and the closing down of Juniata without a fixed date for resumption.

All three of these plants have been running on a reduced basis for several weeks. At Juniata 200 out of the 250 ovens have been in blast. At Davidson 180 out of 333 have been active while only 207 out of 509 have been in commission at Mammoth.

At the latter plant the mine will be kept in operation to produce coal for shipment.

Merchant plants are continuing the restrictive policy more or less generally throughout the region. The Washington Coal & Coke Company has but 325 out of 1,000 ovens in blast having added 335 to the idle list within the past week.

Subscriptions Amounting to Thousands Secured in Indian Creek Valley.

Attention Today is Being Devoted to the Coke Towns About Connellsville at Suggestion of the County Coal and Coke Loan Committee.

BULLSKIN ALSO VISITED

In an endeavor to stir up more enthusiasm and interest on the part of solicitors and prospective bond buyers of outlying districts in the Victory Liberty Loan local campaigners made trips into the townships yesterday by automobile and visited different sections. The auto parties left here at 8 o'clock in the morning and were on the roads until 9 o'clock in the evening.

One carload composed of Robert Norris, R. L. Youkin, S. P. Ashe and E. R. Floto went to Indian Head and through Springfield township. The other group made up of R. S. Matthews, W. O. Adlan, J. W. McClaren and E. T. Norton went to Acme, Davidson and other sections.

In the afternoon both parties met at Victorville where a stirring meeting was held. Several thousand dollars worth of bonds were secured by the Connellsville campaigners during the day and these were turned over to workers of the districts in which they were secured. No endeavor was made by the auto parties to secure buyers but rather to create in them the spirit of patriotism that would open their pocketbooks when the solicitors visited them.

On the return trip the new came through Bullskin township and saw several of the canvassers who are working that section. Things have been going slow in Bullskin but reports are expected this week. The local committee also intends helping Stewart township get a start.

Today Robert Norris and other workers are in the coke towns canvassing the workers. This canvass of coke towns in the vicinity of the city is being made on a suggestion of the coal and coke committee that it would be a great help as otherwise many subscriptions might be missed.

The Connellsville solicitors although no longer working as organized teams this organization discharging when the city men, over the top are still individually at work picking up bond buyers, with the thought in mind that every additional one helps a little.

Members of S. P. Ashe's team secured several hundred dollars more in subscriptions at the power house Saturday morning. The helmet awarded the plant when it became 100 per cent was presented and endorsed by the patriotic sentiment which ran high during the presentation ceremonies, many of the men doubled their first purchases.

FAYETTE COUNTY LEADS LOAN IN PITTSBURG AREA

There Yet Remains, However, 45 Per Cent of the Quota to Be Raised.

"SEE IT THROUGH," APPEAL

Vice Chairman Carr Calls on Everybody to Make Good Showing for the Burs of Company D, Now on Water; Nearly Districts Over the Top.

"Let us see it through" the final appeal by Vice Chairman W. Russell Carr is today finding an echo in every section of Fayette county as the Victory Liberty Loan comes down the home stretch of the last week. Workers were out everywhere bright and early this morning in an intensive effort to put the campaign on Easy Street. This is the last week of opportunity in the Victory drive and headquarters face the outlook with confidence convinced that excuses will not have to be made to Company D when Fayette county's own military unit returns home shortly after the campaign closes.

Although there remains yet 45 per cent of the county quota of $6,049,550 to be subscribed this week, Fayette county has excellent prospects of sustaining its record of being the banner county in the Liberty Loan Allegheny county excepted in the Pittsburgh area, consisting of 39 counties. Reports of subscriptions in the various counties up to Saturday evening showed Fayette county leading the district at Washington county showed a total of $2,108,698 and Westmoreland county had subscribed $2,022,200. All other counties had not yet reached the two-million dollar mark while Fayette county Saturday evening had subscribed $3,159,750.

There are now reports on file at county headquarters from every district in Fayette county with the exception of Wharton No. 2 which has a quota of but $10,100 indicating that the can campaign is being now intensively conducted in all districts. Fayette City Washington and Jefferson townships came across strong Saturday. Fayette City during a 10 o'clock and for $40,000 and each of the townships for $10,000. The General Electric company at Newell Jefferson township with 222 employees is 100 per cent in the loan and entitled to a German helmet although that subscription has not yet been officially reported.

Henry Clay township and Ohio's went over the top Saturday placing county districts on the honor roll. Point Marion is the first district to qualify for a star in the honor flag that district Saturday doubling its quota with subscriptions of $104,200 against a quota of $50,300. Subscriptions in Henry Clay have now reached a total of $78,000 and those at Ohioville $7,250 in each instance just over the mark. Belle Vernon is in line for a star in its honor flag the record here showing $222,750 in subscriptions against a $33,300 quota. Lower Tyrone township needs to raise only $8,000 this week to go over pledged being $18,750 with a quota of $26,600. Upper Tyrone, however, shows but $7,750 with a quota of $19,100.

Boy Scouts in Uniontown have put all kinds of pep in the county sale campaign the total there going over the million mark Saturday. There remains to be subscribed in Uniontown $300,000 this week to go over the top and there now is little doubt but that it will be done with the Boy Scouts in active competition for subscriptions.

The Uniontown organization is not so much concerned over raising its quota as it is in increasing the number of subscribers there being but 1,100 Victory button wearers as compared with 5,532 subscribers to the Fourth loan.

Vanderbilt has subscribed half its quota of $35,900 while Dawson shows but $21,000 with a quota of $85,700. Fairchance also is at the halfway post with $37,500 subscribed. Boy Scouts have also entered the campaign at Brownsville and while subscriptions show but a total of $297,000 there is little doubt but that the River Towns will attain their quota of $569,350.

DUNBAR TOWNSHIP DRIVE

Every Effort to be Extended to Put District Over in Victory Loan.

Victory Liberty Loan workers in Dunbar township under the direction of Chairman L. S. Kerchner, are making an intensive drive this, the last week of the campaign, to put the township well over the top.

The Position That the Jack Should Have for Proper Brake Adjustment.

one brake band at a time. By turning the wheel over with the hands the proper brake adjustments are easily made.

Count the number of clicks in the jack as it is operated for each wheel and compare them. The wheel requiring the most clicks on the jack until the wheel cannot be turned by hand must have its brake bands tightened to equalize them.—P. P. Avery, in Popular Science Monthly Magazine.

ENAMELING TO PREVENT RUST

Ordinary Material Which Dries Quickly Is of Little Use, as It Chips Off Rapidly.

In order to do away with rusting of parts beneath the hood, black enameling may be resorted to with good effect. It is possible to get black enamel today which when properly applied looks little inferior to the baked-on variety. Ordinary enamels which dry quickly are of little use, as they chip and flake off quickly. Parts to be enameled should, if possible, be taken off and cleaned with a stiff wire brush. The enamel should be applied with a stiff varnish brush. The enamel may take as long as a week to dry and care must be used to have an atmosphere free from excessive dust, that means not to dry it in the upper story of a hay barn. Parts—that may be enameled to advantage include steel fan blades, pulley arms, brackets and elbows, nuts that are not often disturbed exposed pieces of shafting, pinion wheel centers, operating rods, collars, etc. Even a cylinder casting may be so treated as a good enamel will stand heat without blistering.

which time it was blessed. Other

"BLIND MAN'S EYES."—A metro production in which Bert Lytell is seen in a splendid role, is being shown today. This is a powerful drama of love and hate, showing the cruel harm which can be done to many through the false accusation of one unscrupulous man. Mr. Lytell is seen in the role of Hugh Overton, otherwise known as Philip Eaton, the falsely accused man. He has but one object in life, that of clearing his name from the stigma of murder, having lost everything dear to him when he is accused of a crime he did not commit. A refreshing contrast is given in the cleverly introduced sympathetic comedy which is done in the actor's happiest vein while a heart gripping romance leads to the charm and unpopularity of the production.
How Overton uncovers the real criminal and brings him to justice is dramatically told in this vivid play. Other players appearing in the cast are Norman Childers, Joseph Kilgour, Richard Morris, Mignon Anderson, and Gertrude Claire. Tuesday Alice Joyce will be featured in "The Cambrie Mask," and on Wednesday and Thursday Norma Talmadge, supported by Eugene O'Brien will be starred in "The Safety Curtain."

THE "14 POINTS" AND RUSSIA.

When, a year ago last January, President Wilson without solicitation by any of the belligerent nations, but upon his own initiative, proclaimed his "Fourteen Points" as the basis upon which an everlasting and universal peace was to be established, his words were hailed as the voice of reason and justice, and the world was quickened by the hope of a new era of peace and harmony.

Upon that assumption, President Wilson went to the peace conference with the announced intention of forcing a peace based upon his postulates, none of which had been accepted integrally by any of the allied nations, although he construed their policy reference to some of the lofty and idealistic principles set forth as an unreserved acceptance of all of them. That insistence upon the incorporation of some of these "points" in the peace treaty has resulted in an undue prolongation of the negotiations.

Upon that assumption, President Wilson went to the peace conference with the announced intention of forcing a peace based upon his postulates, none of which had been accepted integrally by any of the allied nations, although he construed their policy reference to some of the lofty and idealistic principles set forth as an unreserved acceptance of all of them. That insistence upon the incorporation of some of these "points" in the peace treaty has resulted in an undue prolongation of the negotiations.

Open government, peace openly arrived at, did not survive the first meeting of the conference. Some of the points have been applied in one way for one nation and in exact opposite for another. Witness Danzig, applied to Poland, Fiume to Italy, and Shantung to Japan.

In the treatment of Russia the Fourteen Points have been ignored completely. The reference to Russia in Point 6, which reads as follows: "The structure of all Russia territory and such a settlement of all questions affecting Russia as will secure the best and freest relations between the other nations of the world in obtaining for her an unimpeded and unobstructed opportunity for the independent determination of her own political development and national policy, and assure her of a sincere and equal participation in the society of nations under institutions of her own choosing; and more than a welcome assistance also of every kind that she may need and may be entitled to receive."

Russia has been abandoned to her fate. This, too, is the fault of America. As the following recital will show: "A small body of troops, through connivance of Germany, led by Lenin and Trotsky, seized the diminished supply of munitions and guns and took possession of a possession of an armed and defenseless population of millions. They instituted then the bloodiest oppression that has ever been recorded in history. What there was in the attitude of Lenin and Trotsky and their doctrines to inspire loyalty, is undiscoverable. The pro-Bolshevikism of Lincoln Steffens and his brood, worked effectively. But the conference at Prince's Island was proposed by the President. That the dominant people of Russia refused to meet around a table with out-throats, murders and property looting, is no wonder. This atrocious conference was a failure. The very proposal of it acted as a recognition of Bolshevism, as a tolerable doctrine. Instead, the great Russian people should have been helped to throw off the plague of anarchy, fastened upon them like a poison-adder."

With America shrinking from the responsibility, no wonder that Great Britain and France, war-weary, bled to the bone, could not resist the move alone. But America had been scarcely scratched in the war. We were in it, it was proclaimed, to save civilization and we have allowed the hundreds of millions in Russia, under the heel of the tyrant, to remain in slavery, with Liberty's memory, while civilization has been swept out of the plains and cities of Russia and barbaric despotism perpetuates its reign of terror. If the so-called "points" are to be applied that Germany is left, free to exploit Russia and applied in another way so as to alienate the sympathy of Italy as one of the Allies, Germany will have achieved a greater success in winning the war at the peace table than her shrewdest diplomat hoped when they advocated the application for an armistice.

CHANCE OF APPRECIATION.

Without exception, every war bond the United States government ever issued, has sold ABOVE PAR (the face value) within a year after peace was declared.

This unbroken record of over a century and a quarter, and the big business in our national wealth and prestige in the last few years, give the holders of Liberty Bonds, and Notes every reasonable assurance that eventually their securities will be selling ABOVE PAR—will be selling, that is, for more than they paid the government for them.

person except delegates to the Peace Conference can understand why Fiume, after petition to be annexed to Shantung, first stolen from China by Germany, then from Germany by Japan, should be left in the hands of the latter.

To Belgium and Italy it must begin to appear that the Big Three have the ambition to become the Big Push.

Would not it seem to be a trifle more appropriate for Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, which are clamoring for the privilege of witnessing parades by the returning soldiers, to make a better showing in buying Victory Liberty notes, the proceeds of which Uncle Sam needs to bring the boys home?

"Self-determination" at the Peace Conference is working out on the principle that the nation most determined is able to get what it wants.

In view of the penalty of a $5,000 fine or imprisonment for 30 years—that has been provided for anyone who steals like automobile owning is placed in the luxury class.

Better take advantage of this than the last week of Uncle Sam's bargains in bonds.

The solicitude with which the Big Three urge Italy's representatives to return to the Peace Conference makes it appear that there is no longer need of raising a fuss over Fiume now that Japan has been granted everything she wanted in Shantung.

The rest of the country will have to strike the Connellsville pace if it is hoped to base under the Victory-Liberty Loan wire by Sunday.

The Indian raids on Connellsville on Friday and Saturday nights were more successful but less savage than any in the days of the pioneers of the Young Men.

Jugo-Slavs' Side of Fiume Controversy

By a Croatian Rector.

We love our Jugo-Slavs, our geographical name for the country of the Croats, Slovenes and Serbs, as much as the Italians love their Italy. We have the right to life and liberty, as the Italians. At the moment, when we thought that our calvary was over and the stone of oppression was rolled back and our national resurrection was in sight, Italy is in our road, denying us the liberty and self-determination. Italy, the Europe's boot, with shameful and arrogant cynicism with the same boot is trying to step on our neck, taking from us our best cities, our coast, our islands.

But the time of oppression is past. The small nations cannot be any more slaves of the big ones. The might shall be replaced by right.

The Jugo-Slavs have fought for centuries against the Venice Republic; especially the Croats, on the Dalmatian sea coast and the islands of Austria. The life of this people was a real martyrdom.

The Jugo-Slavs in the same time have fought against the Turks from the early fourteenth century to the last Balkan wars. Croatia was never under the Moslems rule, and for their able defense of their own country and Christianity, Pope Leo X called them—Antemurale Christianitatis.

The Jugo-Slavs have suffered for centuries under the despotic Austro-Hungarian government, and now when Austria-Hungary went to pieces, crumbling down under the weight of her sins and injustices, the liberated nations thought that the time came for their liberty, so long expected and deserved.

Now Italy, by force, wants to take our life, our liberty, again, and start the Austrian rule of force and persecution; or to play the role of the pirate of the Adriatic, like the Venice Republic did in the time past.

Between the two evils, we would prefer a hundred and hundred times the old Austrian rule to the new Italian. Under Austria we were suffering; under Italy we would die.

The Italian Irredenta is nothing else than the shield to the most aggressive militarism. Since the Italian unity, all the wars waged by Italy were for conquest. The war against Abyssinia, where the Italian army was defeated by Menelik; the war against the Turks for Tripoli and the Greek Islands in the Aegean, then under Turk dominion, but inhabited by Greek people, and especially the present war, was started by Italy not for the noble principles of democracy and for the liberty of the small oppressed nation, but for the lust of conquest and land grabbing.

For almost a year Italy was on the market for a highest bidder. All the explanations to the contrary were excuses. Now it is clear to everybody, Dalmatia and Fiume (Rijeka) are not Italian; all the Italians there are colonists, fleeing from Italy in search for bread. Rijeka (Fiume) is the natural outlet of Croatia. The beautiful port of Rijeka, with its solid piers and wharves of massive stones and concrete are built with the money of the Croatsians taxpayers and other subjects of Austria-Hungary, and not with Italian money.

Dalmatia and Rijeka (Fiume) are Croatian, and we have to be united with our mother country, with Cro-

Land O' Goshen Ain't You Never Going to Hatch Those Eggs?

We do not need Italy; we do not want Italy. Italy can be our good neighbor, or the worst enemy. No guardian, no tutor. If we ever need any, only the American people will be our guardian.

We have to be all killed, or starved, before we give our sea coast and our islands. Italy, surrounded from three sides by the sea, like no other country, except England or Japan, with many ports on both sides, is still not satisfied; she wants to close all the outlets to the seas to all the nations on the eastern side of the Adriatic, to keep them under her economical and commercial slavery; to control their resources and their development.

On the ruin of the Italian government, are many war lords. Their blunders will be dearly paid for by the poor Italian people.

The Jugo-Slavs will prefer death to slavery.

Our only hope is the support of the great democratic American people. Our cry from the deep of our heart is: Long life to America!

Failure of Government Operation.
Henry Clews.

Government operation of railroads, telegraphs and telephones has proved a failure. However necessary it may have been to take over these instrumentalities as a war measure, it has been amply proved that the government is absolutely incapable of securing the efficiency and economy of operation attained under private enterprise.

The same experience has been had in other lines; and whether in railroads, telegraphs, shipping or other activities the results of government operation have always been the same: inferior service and higher cost as compared with private enterprise. Circumstances may have complicated the experiments; but the results would have been similar; and it is safe to say that the "socialistic" experiments as these have received a setback that will last for a long period.

"The Morning After" in Ljubro.
Ljubro Bulletin.

There were "big heads" galore in Ljubro, "the morning after," and it is likely that even though the sun had been shining, which wasn't the case, still "would have seemed like a cold gray dawn for many."

A terrific amount of drinking was done in the town and throughout the county last evening, and many were the cases of those who had taken too much, in their observation of the "last chance."

But the "headaches" experienced with getting-up time may serve one purpose, at least—they may help bridge the transition from a state of witness to a state of dryness.

There must have been uttered many a "never again" this morning, under the compelling power of throbbing temples, and before the resolution went off, the community will have gotten more or less accustomed to being without license.

THE TROUBLES OF THE GREAT.

Sticks were often overcast. For the great men of the past, Disappointments came their way. They had many a rainy day. Many a burden hard to bear. Many a stony path to face. And because today you think you are standing on the brink of disaster don't give in.

Keep your courage and your grin. See your time of trial through! Washington had troubles, too.

Lincoln had his days of doubt. Days when he was hedged about by a pack of dangerous grim. But they never daunted him. There were times when, hope seemed gone.

But he bravely kept right on. He held his course however assailed. Never once his courage failed. And today we find his name linked in everlasting fame.

Care may make a man of you. Lincoln had his troubles, too. Men who never met a blow. Never rise above the throng. With the stream they drift along. Only those who dare to fight. For a cause they know is right. And can set their teeth and bear. All the hardships of despair. Conquer failure; they alone. Make success at last their own. In this thought find courage new. Great men had their troubles, too.

FIRST SERGEANT HARRY J. ADAMS

(Company K, 353d Infantry, 89th Division)

"In the clean-up of Bouillonville, in the salient of St. Mihiel, eighty prisoners had been taken, and Sergeant Adams was ordered to see if there were any more to be taken in the town. He saw a German run into a house, and dashing after him entered in time to see the fugitive go through a trap-door in the wall. Sergeant Adams had only two shots left in his automatic. He fired them both through the door and ordered the German to surrender. The German came out—and after him one Lieutenant-colonel, 18 staff officers, and 355 soldiers."

Official Citation for Croix de Guerre.

For this action Sergeant Adams was cited also for the Distinguished Service Cross—for "his bravery, coolness and confidence." To him is credited the largest single-handed capture of German prisoners made by any American soldier. Sergeant Adams had a job to finish. And he finished it—with an empty automatic. We have a job to finish—Let's finish it. INVEST IN THE VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN TO THE LIMIT OF YOUR ABILITY.

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands, Strong, Vigorous, Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their hardest over time.

Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork.

By worry, dependency, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest, excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcoholic drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with unpaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Timidity, dependency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardliness, are due in a large measure to abused nerves.

People with plenty of red blood and power of endurance, to be not only a man but a man new go, a superman, you must take seven tablets of Bioferen every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Take two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one only after each meal until the supply is exhausted.

Then if you feel that any claim made in this special notice is untrue—if your nerves are not twice as steady as before, if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen minded, the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bioferen is without doubt the greatest remedy for nervous, run-down, weak, anemic men and women ever offered direct through druggists and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

MAX CAREY DECLARES FIRST GAME HARDEST

Joger Bresnahan Got Him Rattled by Continuous Chatter.

Was Injured into Pastime in Eighth Inning With Score Tied, Two on Bases and Two Out—Made Good With Triples.

"I will always regard the first game I ever played in the National League as the one which brought me face to face with the toughest pitcher of my baseball career," said Max Carey recently.

"I had just reported to the Pittsburgh club at St. Louis. It was during the first of the season, of 1910, and I was getting my first major league trial."

"An outfield composed of Fred Clarke, Tommy Leach, Chief Wilson and Vince Campbell meant I had hope for a youngster of twenty who wanted to make good. But Clarke gave me a chance, sure enough, and the pitcher who was to be my first opponent in the eighth inning with the score tied, 2 and 2, two out and two on the bases."

"Joger Bresnahan, catching for the Cardinals, let out a line of chatter that made me think I was in a hotel lobby-fanning bee. He signaled Benny Hearn, the pitcher, for a fast ball. Then he stopped the game, walked out and called the left fielder, Rebel Oaken, to come in several steps, and came back to the plate with—

"Let's see how you look on a curve."

"Well, I swung on the next pitched ball and swung hard."

"Bang! went my bat against the leather and it sure felt good. They went that ball over Rebel's head, for three bases, and we won the game."

STAR IN BRAVES' OUTFIELD

Joe Riggart, Drafted From St. Paul Club, Expected to Make Good This Season.

The Braves have evidently picked up a player who may be worth much to them this season. He is Joe Riggart, drafted from the St. Paul club of the American association.

Riggart, who is an outfielder, took part in all the games played by his team last season and finished with a batting average of .225. He made a total of 191 safe-swats, and 29 of them were for extra-bases. He was credited with making six home runs. He accepted 218 chances in the field out of a possible 220, giving him a fielding average of .991.

A few years ago Riggart received a try-out with the Red Sox, but he was unable to make the team. He came to the Red Sox as a left fielder, but was outclassed by "Duffy Lewis."

EMSLIE STILL HOLDING PACE

Dean of National League Umpires Starts on Twenty-Seventh Campaign in National League.

Bob EMSLIE, dean of the National League umpires, still holds the major league pace, albeit this marks the beginning of his twenty-seventh campaign. EMSLIE was umpiring when some of the star players of today were in knee trousers. Despite his years of service, however, his eye still is keen, and he gets about the diamond as sprightly as some of his younger contemporaries. Ball players have great respect for Bob EMSLIE, and the fans, too, usually are satisfied that when he calls a decision it is right.

CURVE BALL BY EXPRESS

Joe Bens and Paul Musser, while with the White Sox at Mineral Wells on one training trip, had a lot of fun talking about their curve ball. One afternoon Joe went up to the colored porter, named Dee, and asked if his curve ball had come in yet.

"Yes, all expecting it," asked Dee, in all seriousness.

"Yes, it's coming by express," replied Joe. He slipped Dee a quarter. "Run, over to the station now and see if it's in."

Dee hustled away. Within 20 minutes he was back. "It's not come yet, sah," he said, "but dey all expects it'll be in in de mornin'."

FITTING A NEW CARBURETOR

Care Should Be Taken That There is No Looseness to Cause Vibration and Broken Flange.

In fitting a new carburetor be sure that there is no looseness to cause vibration, because if there is a broken flange will be the inevitable result. If vibration is present a small iron bracket should be installed from a nut on the engine frame to the instrument to steady it, also taking the strain off the intake pipe.

CHAPTER I.

A Dog and a Damsel.
As I sat on a bench in Madison square after half past eleven in the evening a dog came trotting up to me, stopped at my feet and whined.

There is nothing remarkable in having a strange dog run to one, nor in seeing the creature rise on its hind legs and paw at you for notice and a caress. Only, this happened to be an Eskimo dog.

I stroked the beast, which lay down at my feet, tucking its head sometimes to yawn and sometimes darting off a little way and coming back to tug at the lower edge of my overcoat. But my mind was too much occupied for me to take any but a perfunctory interest in its maneuvers. My eight years of thankless drudgery as a clerk, following on a brief adventurous period after I ran away to sea from my English home had terminated three days before upon receipt of a legacy, and I had at once left Tom Carson's employment.

Six thousand guineas—thirty thousand dollars—the will said. I had seen for some time that Carson meant to get rid of me. It had been a satisfaction to me to get rid of him instead.

He had been alternately a prospector and a company promoter all the working years of his shabby life. Tom was as secretive as a clam, except with Simon Leroux.

Leroux was a parish politician from some place near Quebec, and his clean-shaven, wrinkled face was as hard and mean as any city boss in the United States. He and old Tom used to be closeted together for hours at a time.

I never liked the man and I never cared for Carson's business ways. I was glad to leave him the day after my legacy arrived.

My plans were vague. I had been occupying, at a low rental, a tiny apartment consisting of two rooms, a bath and what is called a "kitchenette," at the top of an old building in Tenth street which was about to be pulled down. I had half planned to take boat for Jamaica. I wanted to think and plan.

The Eskimo dog was growing uneasy. It would run from me, looking round and uttering a succession of short barks, then run back and tug at my overcoat again.

Suddenly it wished me to accompany it, and I wondered who its master was and how it came to be there.

I rose and followed the beast, which showed its eager delight by running ahead of me, turning round at times to back, and then continuing on its way with a precision which showed me that it was certain of its destination.

The dog turned down a street in the Twenties, ran on a few yards, bounded up a flight of stone steps and began scratching at the door of a house that was apparently empty.

This place I knew by reputation. It was Jim Daly's notorious haunts, where he conducted gambling, entertainment, which was running full blast at a time when every other institution of this character had found it convenient to shut down.

So the creature's master was inside Daly's, and it wished me to get him out. I looked in some disappointment at the closed doors and turned away. I meant to go home, and I had proceeded about three feet when the lock clicked. I stopped. The front door opened cautiously and the gray head of Jim's negro butler appeared.

Then emerged one of the most beautiful women that I have ever seen. She could not have been more than twenty years of age. Her hair was of a fair brown, the features modeled splendidly, the head poised upon a swan-like throat that gleamed beneath a necklace of magnificent sable.

She carried a sable muff, too, and under these furs was a dress of unstylish fashion and cut that contrasted curiously with them. I thought that those loose sleeves had passed away before the nineteenth century died. In one hand she carried a bag, into which she was stuffing a large roll of bills. She passed so close to me that her dress brushed my overcoat, and for an instant her eyes met mine. There was a look in them that startled me—terror and helplessness, as though she had suffered some dumbfounding shock which made her actions more automatic than conscious.

I was bewildered. What was a girl like that doing in Daly's at half past twelve in the night? She began walking slowly and rather aimlessly, it seemed to me, along the street in the direction of Sixth avenue. My curiosity was unbored. I followed her at a decent interval to see what she was going to do. But she did not seem to know.

The street loafers stared after her, and two men began walking abreast of her on the other side of the road. I followed more closely.

As she stood upon the curb on the east side of Sixth avenue I saw her glance timidly up and down before venturing to cross. It was quite half a minute before she commenced resolution to plunge beneath the structure of the elevated railroad. When she had reached the other side she stood still again, before continuing westward.

The two men crossed the street and glanced at each other. They were looking at a figure that stood on the sidewalk. They had a look of over his eye. A taxicab was crawling up behind them. I was sure that they were in pursuit of her.

The four of us were almost abreast in the middle of the long block between Sixth and Seventh avenues. Suddenly the man with the patch turned on me, lowered his head and butted me off my feet. I fell into the roadway, and at that instant the second fellow grasped the girl by the arm and the taxicab whirled up and stopped.

The girls assailants seemed to be trying to force her into the cab. The bag flew open, scattering a shower of gold pieces upon the pavement. And then, before I could get upon my feet again the dog had leaped at the throat of the man with the patch and stopped.

pretense, and then inform me that the hotel was full.

My curiosity had given place to deep anxiety on her account. What was this child doing in New York alone, and what sort of father had let her come, if her story were true? What was she? She looked French and had something of the French frankness.

There was only one thing to do, and, though I shrank from the suggestion it had to be made.

"It is evident that you must go somewhere tonight," I said. "I have two rooms which I am vacating tomorrow. They are poorly furnished, but there is clean linen, and if you will occupy them for the night I can go elsewhere, and I will call for you at nine in the morning."

She smiled at me gratefully—she did not seem surprised at all.

"You have some baggage?" I asked. "No, monsieur," she answered.

She was French, then—Canadian French, I had no doubt. I was hardly surprised at her answer. I had ceased to be surprised at anything she told me.

"Tomorrow I shall show you where to make some purchases, then," I said. "And now, mademoiselle, suppose we take a taxicab."

As her hand lightened upon my arm I saw a man standing on the west side of Broadway and staring intently at us.

He was of a singular appearance. He wore a fur coat with a collar of Persian lamb, and on his head was a lambkin cap such as worn in colder climates but in seldom seen in New York. He had an aspect decidedly foreign, and I imagined that he was scowling at us malignantly.

I called a taxicab and gave the driver my address. He was a Frenchman, and on his head was a lambkin cap such as worn in colder climates but in seldom seen in New York. He had an aspect decidedly foreign, and I imagined that he was scowling at us malignantly.

Go through some side streets and go fast," I said.

The fellow nodded. He understood my motive, though I fear he may have misinterpreted the circumstances. During the drive I instructed my companion emphatically.

"Since you have no friends here you must have confidence in me, mademoiselle," I said.

And you are my friend? Well, monsieur, be sure I trust you," she answered.

"You must listen to me attentively, then," I continued. "You must not admit anybody to the apartment until I ring tomorrow. I have the key, and I shall arrive at nine and ring, and then unlock the door. But take no notice of the key."

"You, monsieur," she answered wearily. Her eyelids dropped, I saw that she was very sleepy.

When the taxicab deposited us in front of the house I glanced hastily up and down the road. There was another cab at the east end of the street, but I could not discern if it were approaching me or stationary. I opened the front door quickly and admitted my companion, then preceded her up the uncarpeted stairs to my little apartment on the top floor.

As I opened the door of my apartment the dog pushed past me. Again I had forgotten it, but it had not forgotten its mistress.

"Till tomorrow, mademoiselle," I said. "And won't you tell me your name?"

"Jacqueline," she answered. "And yours?"

"Paul," I said.

"An revoir, Monsieur Paul, then, and take my gratitude with you for your goodness."

I let her hand fall and hurried down the stairs, confused and choking, for there was a wedding ring upon her finger.

CHAPTER II.

Back in the Room.

The situation had become more preposterous than ever. Two hours before it would have been unimaginable, one hour ago I had merely been offering aid to a young woman in distress, now she was occupying my rooms and I was hurrying along Tenth street, careless as to my destination and feeling as though the whole world was crumbling about my head because she was a wedding ring.

As I passed up the street the taxicab which I had seen at the east end came rapidly toward me. It passed, and I stopped and looked after it. I was certain that it slackened speed outside the door of the old building, but again it went on quickly until it was lost to view in the distance.

Had I given the pursuers a clue by my reappearance?

I watched for a few moments longer, but the vehicle did not return and I dismissed the idea as folly. After all, New York was a civilized city, and I could be sure of the girl's safety behind the street door lock and that of my apartment door. So I refused to yield to the impulse to go back and assure myself that she was all right. I must find a hotel and get a good night's sleep.

As I went on new thoughts began to press on my imagination. The tale about the father, the assumed ignorance of the conventions—how much could be believed?

Had she not probably left her husband in some Canadian city and come to New York to enjoy her holiday in her own fashion? Could she innocently have adventured to Daly's door and actually have succeeded in gaining admission?

Perhaps she was worse than I was even now imagining.

Perhaps, if I had not left her—perhaps, if I turned back—I clenched my fists and hurried on. I would not give rein to the thoughts that were making my heart bound like a runaway horse.

I had turned up Fifth avenue and had reached Twelfth or Thirteenth street when I thought I heard the patter of the Eskimo dog's feet behind me. I spun around, startled, but there was only the long stretch of pavement. I had resumed my course when I was sure I heard the patter again. And again I saw nothing.

A moment later I was hurrying back toward the apartment house. My nerves had suddenly become unstrung. I felt sure now that some imminent danger was threatening Jacqueline. I could not bear the suspense of waiting till morning.

And as I ran I thought I heard the patter of the dog's feet, pattering upon the pavement. I was hurrying the more of Tom Carson's dog, and again the folly of my William E. Cress, No. 188 Merrimac St., Mt. Washington, Pa., Tells Story.

Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, is a purifying and a vitalizing agent. It corrects local disorders of the stomach, which is being demonstrated daily and verified by well known local people in signed statements.

For instance, Mr. William E. Cress, who resides at No. 188 Merrimac Street, Mount Washington, was born and raised in Pittsburgh, and is a trusted employee of the largest furniture company in his city, stated:

"I have suffered with chronic constipation for years. My stomach was also affected, and my food fermented and caused gas, which gave me great distress. I was nervous and restless and could not sleep at night and felt all worn out in the morning and totally unfit for work. Every medicine I tried failed to relieve me and I felt so discouraged I did not know what to do. Finally I secured Plant Juice, and began to take it. I felt relieved from the first dose, and have certainly gotten splendid results from it, as it has completely relieved my constipation, toned my stomach up in fine condition, I sleep well and my general health is fine. I will be glad to recommend Plant Juice."

Plant Juice is a vegetable tonic, extracted from the roots, herbs, barks and berries of numerous medicinal plants. It's nature's own remedy and works wonders. It gives almost immediate benefit and it leads to permanent relief in practically every case where people suffer as above outlined.

behavior struck home to me. I stopped and tried to think. Was it some instinct that was taking me back, or was it the remembrance of Jacqueline's beauty? Was it not the desire to see her, to ask her about the ring?

I had actually swung around when I heard the ghostly patter of the feet again close at my side. I made my decision in that instant and hurried swiftly on my course back toward the apartment house.

When at last I found my door my hands were trembling so that I could hardly fit the key into the lock.

I bounded up the stairs. But on the top story I had to pause to get my breath, and then I dared not enter. I listened outside. There was no sound from within.

The two rooms that I occupied were separated only by a curtain, which fell short a foot from the floor and was slung on a wooden pole, disclosing two feet between the top of it and the ceiling. The rooms were thus actually one, and even that might have been called small, for the bed in the rear room was not a dozen paces from the door.

I listened for the breathing of the sleeping girl. If I could hear her breathe, I thought I would go quietly away and find a hotel in which to sleep. I listened minute after minute, but I could not hear a sound.

At last I put my mouth to the keyhole and spoke to her "Jacqueline," I called. There was no answer.

Then a little louder: "Jacqueline!" And then quite loudly: "Jacqueline!"

Then, out of the silence, hammering on my eardrums, burst the loud ticking of the little alarm clock that I had left on the mantel of the bedroom. I heard that, and it must have been ticking minutes before the sound reached me; perhaps if I waited a little longer I should hear her breathing.

I took the key of the apartment from my pocket at last and fitted it noiselessly into the lock. I stood there, trembling and irresolute. I dared not turn the key.

Once more I ventured: "Jacqueline! Jacqueline!"

There was not the smallest answering stir within. And so with shaking fingers, I turned the key.

The room was completely dark except for a little patch of light high up on the bedroom wall, which came through the hole the workmen had made when they began demolishing the building. I hesitated a moment, then I drew a match from my pocket and rubbed it softly into a flame against my trousers leg.

I reached up to the gas above the table, turned it on and the light descended mantle, lowering the light immediately. But even then there was no sound.

The oppressive stillness was not that of solitude. She must be awake; she must be listening in terror.

I went toward the curtains and when I spoke I heard the words come through my lips in a voice that I could not recognize as mine.

"Jacqueline!" I whispered. "It is Paul, your friend. Are you safe, Jacqueline?"

Now I saw, under the curtains, what looked like the body of a very small animal. It might have been a woolly dog or a black lambkin, and it was lying perfectly still.

I pulled aside the curtains and stood between them, and the scene stamped itself upon my brain as clear as a photographic print forever.

The woolly beast was the fur cap of a dead man who lay across the floor of the little room. There was a tiny hole in his breast, over the heart, from which a little blood had flowed. The wound had pierced the heart and death had evidently been instantaneous.

I had turned up Fifth avenue and had reached Twelfth or Thirteenth street when I thought I heard the patter of the Eskimo dog's feet behind me. I spun around, startled, but there was only the long stretch of pavement. I had resumed my course when I was sure I heard the patter again. And again I saw nothing.

A moment later I was hurrying back toward the apartment house. My nerves had suddenly become unstrung. I felt sure now that some imminent danger was threatening Jacqueline. I could not bear the suspense of waiting till morning.

And as I ran I thought I heard the patter of the dog's feet, pattering upon the pavement. I was hurrying the more of Tom Carson's dog, and again the folly of my

DIDN'T KNOW TY COBB

Many freak things have happened in the young life of Rube Schauer, formerly with the Giants and who was with the Athletics until drafted into military service. However, the best one on Rube is the time he pitched five innings against Detroit in an exhibition game, thinking that Grover Velt was Ty Cobb. The Giants know that if Schauer would pitch to Cobb not knowing it was Ty he would get by all right. They pointed out Velt and said: "He's the boy you got to stop." Schauer used all his cunning on Velt, a .309 hitter and never gave Cobb a tumble. It wasn't until the sixth inning that Rube got wise.

Among those who would just as soon see Grover Alexander remain in definitely along the Rhine are the seven other National league clubs.

STATE FIRE CHIEF OUTLINES MEANS OF PREVENTING FIRES

Special Attention to Precautions Called For Cleanup Week, May 12-13.

WATCH PREMISES CLOSELY

Special Periodical Inspection to Eliminate Hazards in Cooperation With Neighbors Will Do Much, Fire Chief, Lessor Cost of Living.

Following the announcement that he had fixed the week beginning May 12 as Cleanup Week for Pennsylvania, Howard E. Butz, state fire marshal, has made public a list of suggestions to be followed out in the various communities of the state, which the fire marshal believes will be helpful in the department's campaign for fire prevention. Of course, the removal and disposal of all rubbish about the houses and about business premises and other places of employment is a primary factor in fire prevention and it is the intention of the fire marshal to exert every effort to make Pennsylvania free from rubbish during cleanup week. In addition to the cleanup campaign, the fire marshal is of the belief that the week of May 12 would be a good time for the introduction of other measures which would aid in preventing fires and also in checking fires should they get started.

The suggestions of Fire Marshal Butz as outlined in this direction are as follows:

Make it a duty to inspect your premises regularly. Remove and destroy useless material that might cause fire. Ask your neighbor to help you reduce insurance rates by improving conditions and the prevention of fires. Keep in view the possibility of fire and use precautions to avoid one. Encourage labor for improved building regulations and the use of fire resistant material in the erection of new buildings.

Put no trust in the fact that you never suffered a loss by fire as a reason for being unprepared. Spend a few dollars for extinguishers and place them handy for instant use. Never discourage a neighbor who is wise enough to protect his property; do likewise.

Now is the opportunity time to encourage carefulness in the handling of inflammable liquids—they are not fool proof. Stop fire losses. They add to the high cost of living. You are responsible for damage to a neighbor's property if by your carelessness it is destroyed by fire.

Look after defective chimneys, flues, heaters, stoves and stovepipes; have defects repaired. They are the cause of disastrous fires. Very many persons do not recognize the danger of carelessly handling gasoline. It is dangerous and should be used with caution to avoid accident or possibly death.

Always provide metal receptacles for oily rags and waste. Spontaneous combustion may result by failure to do so. Never permit children to play with matches. Many a little life has been lost through neglect of parents to caution against this dangerous practice.

Insist on the inspection of every property in your community and the remedying of conditions in the interest of fire prevention. Assist in this work by calling together the neighbors and forming a fire prevention association.

Fires come when least expected. It is not the saving of your home worth an effort to get busy and protect it by cleaning up and keeping it clean, free from rubbish and trash? Extinguish matches before throwing them away. Use none but safety matches.

Rubbish heaps are fire breeders. Fires start in them and are fed by them. A clean city will have few fires. Oil stoves and lamps should be trimmed only in daylight and out of doors if possible.

Owners of property should use all reasonable effort to preserve their property in the event of fire—better, however, to expend effort in the prevention of fire.

Frequent clean ups prevent fires, add to the beauty of the home and surroundings, enhance the value of your property, create comfort, happiness and will make Pennsylvania fire proof.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Prepared For Woman's Use.

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attends the making of this great medicine for woman's ills.

Over 500,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually, and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

BARNES IS ASKED TO HANDLE 1919 CROP

Grain Corporation Chief Urged by Wilson to Control Coming Harvest.

President Wilson, acting on a recommendation of Herbert Hoover, food administrator, has requested Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation of the United States food administration, to head an organization for handling the 1919 wheat crop under the congressional guarantee.

Mr. Barnes was a leading grain exporter in the United States, but he gave up his entire business connections at the beginning of the war.

He was chief of the cereal division of the food administration and also president of the grain corporation formed by the food administration under the Lever act to handle the wheat crops of 1917 and 1918, and also to act as the food administration's agency for the purchase and distribution of great volumes of foodstuffs for the army and navy, for the allies, for the Belgian relief commission and later for the American relief administration.

The corporation's capital of $150,000,000 belongs to the government and is intact for the new purpose.

This comprises another step in the liquidation of the food group of which relief and sugar equalizations, and food are the principal functions now remaining. Mr. Hoover will continue to act as chairman of the sugar board until the sugar contracts have been completed and of the grain corporation until July 1, after which Mr. Barnes will become the responsible director to the president.

Mr. Hoover, of course, will continue as director general of relief on behalf of the allied and American governments until next summer's harvest in Europe, when it is expected the critical period in the world's food supplies will be passed and the wholesale feeding of the famine districts of Europe no longer will be necessary.

TROOPS NEED MAGAZINES
Pershing Asks That Public Continue Its Donations.

The soldiers overseas are asking for more reading matter. General Pershing has cabled the request that more magazines be sent to the Americans on duty in France and in other countries in Europe. The general says the boys need interesting reading matter as never before.

The supply of magazines has been reduced from ten to two tons a month due to misapprehension of the public that magazines could not be sent under the one cent postage ruling. Some magazines inadvertently dropped the line announcing that publications would be carried overseas under a one-cent stamp. The ruling is still in force and magazines are asked to print it again in the upper right hand corner of the first page.

In order that the shortage may be quickly overcome individuals are asked to double and triple the number of magazines they previously were accustomed to send.

PIGS GET INTOXICATED
Fed Upon Great Quantities of Rice and Corn Mash.

Reports that a herd of pigs was doing in an unusual manner on a hog ranch near Ashburn, Wash., led to an investigation by county authorities and federal agents who are trailing liquor law violators. The porkers were found to be in an intoxicated condition, some of the herd being close to the stage when carter striped zebras, azure-blue baboons, and Nile green ant-eaters might have caused unrest in the pens.

The condition of the herd was found to have been due to the pigs having been fed vast quantities of rice and corn liquor mash, which had been dumped from vats when an adjoining farm had been raided and Japanese were found to be operating a whisky still in a wholesale manner.

A veterinary was summoned to assist the pigs through the hangover stage.

Unusual. A curious case. He publicly admits his sin.

MINING INDUSTRY ON UPWARD TREND IN WEST VIRGINIA

Idle Plants Show Perceptible Decrease in the Fairmont Region.

THE B. & O. IS UNDER FIRE

Mining Operators Contend That They Are Not Being Fairly Dealt With By the Company While at Same Time the Company While at Same Time

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 5.—While the coal business is far from being dead it nevertheless is improving gradually and today it presents a brighter aspect than it has for a long time. There are but 134 mines idle, for since January 20, when District Representative Isner was on the job in Fairmont, the number has been as low.

On that particular date there were 127 mines idle, just seven less than today.

On February 3 there were 161 mines idle. February 1 there were 174 down. Those figures apply to the 235 mines on the Monongah division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Conditions grew worse and worse until the climax was reached within the past two months. The coal business today is on the upward trend without a doubt if these favorable omens stand for anything at all.

Fewer unconsolidated loads are on the Monongah division today than any time since February 4, when the Fuel Administration was in charge.

There are two activities that are helping greatly to move surplus coal. They are the shipments to the lakes and the influx of foreign buyers. Curtis Bay shipments last month increased almost 500 loads over March's total.

Impressions are general among the coal operators of the Fairmont region that they are not being handed a square deal by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The outstanding fact, the coal operators say is that other railroads can take care of the operators along their lines and the Baltimore & Ohio cannot and yet they are all being operated under the same general head system. This is a hard nut to crack and one that the Baltimore & Ohio officials will have some time explaining.

THIRTY MILLIONS OF CENTENARY FUND
ALREADY PLEDGED

Campaign for Remainder on Methodist Program Will Be Rushed During Week of May 18-25.

PITTSBURGH, May 5.—Thirty million dollars of the Methodist centenary fund already has been raised, it was announced this afternoon at the organization meeting in the Fort Pitt hotel of 103 financial campaign chairmen who will conduct the centenary financial campaign from May 18 to May 25 in the churches of Allegheny county.

Reports presented at the meeting show that the Methodist Episcopal church has perfected one of the most complete and efficient campaign organizations gotten together in the last five years. With clock-like precision the whole program of the campaign has been carried out day by day by the 700 odd churches in the Pittsburgh area.

This afternoon 13 of the 19 campaign districts in the area have been thoroughly organized by the appointment of district and church chairmen. Team workers will be appointed in each church by Monday, May 12.

Bishop Joseph Berry, presiding bishop of the Pittsburgh conference, was an unexpected visitor to the meeting. He hurried here from Philadelphia, delivered an enthusiastic centenary address and left after the meeting for Buffalo.

Will R. McCard, financial campaign director, stated that practically all churches in the area which includes southwestern New York, western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Northern Virginia have been keeping up to their campaign schedules.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "biliousness" and that lacy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.
